PART FIRST

BILL OF RIGHTS

ARTICLE 1ST. All men are born equally free and independent; therefore, all government of right originates from the people, is founded in consent, and instituted for the general good.

[ART.] *2d. All men have certain natural, essential, and inherent rights, among which are the enjoying and defending life and liberty, acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and, in a word, of seeking and obtaining happiness.

[ART.] 3d. When men enter into a state of society, they surrender up some of their natural rights to that society, in order to insure the protection of others; and, without such an equivalent, the surrender is void.

[ART.] 4th. Among the natural rights, some are in their very nature unalienable, because no equivalent can be given or received for them. Of this kind are the rights of conscience.

[ART.] 5th. Every individual has a natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and reason; and no subject shall be hurt, molested, or restrained, in his person, liberty, or estate, for worshipping God in the manner and season most agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience, or for his religious profession, sentiments, or persuasion, provided he doth not disturb the public peace or disturb others in their religious worship.

[ART.] 6th. As morality and piety, rightly grounded on evangelical principles, will give the best and greatest security to government, and will lay in the hearts of men the strongest obligations to due subjection, and as the knowledge of these is most likely to be propagated through a society by the institution of the public worship of the Deity and of public instruction in morality and religion, therefore to promote those important purposes, the people of this state have a right to empower, and do hereby fully empower, the legislature to authorize, from time to time, the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies within this state to make adequate provision, at their own expense, for the support and maintenance of public Protestant teachers of piety, religion, and morality.

religious teachers.
Sm., 1.
liii, 9; 133.
lvi, 508.
lxvi, 230.

Provided, notwithstanding, that the several towns, parishes, bodies corporate, or religious societies shall at all times have the exclusive right of electing their own public teachers and of contracting with them for their support and maintenance. And no person of any one particular religious sect or denomination shall be compelled to pay towards the support of the teacher or teachers of another persuasion, sect, or denomination.

Free toleration.
liii, 9.

And every denomination of Christians, demeaning themselves quietly and as good subjects of the state, shall be equally under the protection of the law; and no subordination of any one sect or denomination to another shall ever be established by law.

Existing contracts not affected.

And nothing herein shall be understood to affect any former contracts made for the support of the ministry; but all such contracts shall remain and be in the same state as if this constitution had not been made.

State sovereignty.
lxvi, 369.

[ART.] 7th. The people of this state have the sole and exclusive right of governing themselves as a free, sovereign, and independent state, and do, and forever hereafter shall, exercise and enjoy every power, jurisdiction, and right pertaining thereto which is not or may not hereafter be by them expressly delegated to the United States of America in congress assembled.

[ART.] 8th. All power residing originally in, and being derived from, the people, all the magistrates and officers of government are their substitutes and agents and at all times accountable to them.

Accountability of magistrates and officers. lxvi, 369. lxvii, 49.

[ART.] 9th. No office or place whatsoever in government shall be hereditary, the abilities and integrity requisite in all not being transmissible to posterity or relations.

No hereditary office or place.

[ART.] 10th. Government being instituted for the common benefit, protection, and security of the whole community, and not for the private interest or emolument of any one man, family, or class of men, therefore, whenever the ends of government are perverted and public liberty manifestly endangered and all other means of redress are ineffectual, the people may, and of right ought to, reform the old or establish a new government. The doctrine of nonresistance against arbitrary power and oppression is absurd, slavish, and destructive of the good and happiness of mankind.

Right of revolution. lii, 592. lxv, 113.

[ART.] 11th. All elections ought to be free; and every inhabitant of the state, having the proper qualifications, has equal right to elect and be elected into office; [but no person shall have the right to vote, or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state, who shall not be able to read the constitution in the English language, and to write; provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to any person prevented by a physical disability from complying with its requisitions, nor to any person who now has the right to vote, nor to any person who shall be sixty years of age or upwards on the first day of January A. D. 1904,]* [and provided further, that no person shall have the right to vote or be eligible to office under the constitution of this state who shall have been convicted of treason, bribery, or any wilful violation of the election laws of this state or of the United States; but the supreme court may, on notice to the attorney-general restore the privileges of an elector to any person who may have forfeited them by conviction of such offences.]†

[ART.] 12th. Every member of the community has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property. He is, therefore, bound to contribute his share in the expense of such protection, and to yield his personal service, when necessary, or an equivalent. But no part of a man's property shall be taken from him or applied to public uses without his own consent or that of the representative body of the people. Nor are the inhabitants of this state controllable by any other laws than those to which they or their representative body have given their consent.

[ART.] 13th. No person who is conscientiously scrupulous about the lawfulness of bearing arms shall be compelled thereto, provided he will pay an equivalent.

[ART.] 14th. Every subject of this state is entitled to a certain remedy, by having recourse to the laws, for all injuries he may receive in his person, property, or character, to obtain right and justice freely, without being obliged to purchase it; completely and without any denial; promptly and without delay; conformably to the laws.

[ART.] 15th. No subject shall be held to answer for any crime or offense until the same is fully and plainly, substantially and formally, described to him, or be compelled to accuse or furnish evidence against himself. And every subject shall have a right to produce all proofs that may be favorable to himself, to meet the witnesses against him face to face, and to be fully heard in his defense by himself, [ART.] 16th. No subject shall be liable to be tried, after an acquittal, for the same crime or offense; nor shall the legislature make any law that shall subject any person to a capital punishment (excepting for the government of the army and navy, and the militia in actual service) without trial by jury.

[ART.] 17th. In criminal prosecutions, the trial of facts in the vicinity where they happened is so essential to the security of the life, liberty, and estate of the citizen, that no crime or offense ought to be tried in any other county than that in which it is committed except in cases of general insurrection in any particular county, when it shall appear to the judges of the superior court that an impartial trial cannot be had in the county where the offense may be committed, and, upon their report, the [legislature]* shall think proper to direct the trial in the nearest county in which an impartial trial can be obtained.

[ART.] 18th. All penalties ought to be proportioned to the nature of the offense. No wise legislature will affix the same punishment to the crimes of theft, forgery, and the like, which they do to those of murder and treason. Where the same undistinguishing severity is exerted against all offenses, the people are led to forget the real distinction in the crimes themselves and to commit the most flagrant with as little compunction as they do† the lightest [offenses].‡ For the same reason, a multitude of sanguinary laws is both impolitic and [ART.] 19th. [Every subject hath a right to be secure from all unreasonable searches and seizures of his person, his houses, his papers, and all his possessions. Therefore, all warrants to search suspected places or arrest a person for examination or trial, in prosecutions for criminal matters, are contrary to this right, if the cause or foundation of them be not previously supported by oath or affirmation, and if the order, in a warrant to a civil officer, to make search in suspected places or to arrest one or more suspected persons or to seize their property, be not accompanied with a special designation of the persons or objects of search, arrest, or seizure; and no warrant ought to be issued but in cases and with the formalities prescribed by law.]

[ART.] 20th. In all controversies concerning property and in all suits between two or more persons, except in cases in which it has been heretofore otherwise used and practiced [and except in cases in which the value in controversy does not exceed one hundred dollars and title of real estate is not concerned]† the parties have a right to a trial by jury; and this method of procedure shall be held sacred, unless, in cases arising on the high seas and such as relates to mariners' wages, the legislature shall think it necessary hereafter to alter it.

[ART.] 21st. In order to reap the fullest advantage of the inestimable privilege of the trial by jury, great care ought to be taken that none but qualified persons should be appointed to serve; and such ought to [be]‡ fully compensated for their travel, time, and attendance.

[ART.] 22^d. The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in a state; it ought, therefore, to be inviolably preserved.

It is the right of every citizen to be tried by judges as impartial as the lot of humanity will admit. [ART.] 38th. A frequent recurrence to the fundamental principles of the constitution and a constant adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, industry, frugality, and all the social virtues, are indispensably necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty and good government. The people ought, therefore, to have a particular regard to all those principles in the choice of their officers and representatives; and they have a right to require of their law-givers and magistrates an exact and constant observance of them in the formation and execution of the laws necessary for the good administration of government.

PIERCE STATUE IN STATE HOUSE YARD

HISTORY OF THE CONSTITUTION

After the withdrawal of the royal governor, John Wentworth, in May, 1775, this province was governed, so far as there was any state government, by a convention, of which Matthew Thornton was president.

On the fifth day of January, 1776, a temporary constitution was adopted, which was the first written constitution adopted by any of the states now constituting the American Union. Under this constitution, Meshech Weare was unanimously elected president of the council and chairman of the committee of safety; and the state was prosperously governed for eight years.

In June, 1784, a new constitution, which had been approved by the people and established by the convention, October 31, 1783, took effect, and continued in force until 1793. In 1792, a new constitution was submitted to the people and adopted by them, and took effect in June, 1793. Most of its provisions were similar to those in the constitution of 1784, with several important amendments. This constitution remained unchanged until 1852.

The constitutional convention of 1850 proposed several important amendments, but they were all rejected by the people. At an adjourned meeting in 1851, the convention proposed three amendments, only one of which was adopted, the one removing the property qualification in the case of governor, senator, and representative. The governor, by his proclamation of September 16, 1852, gave notice that this amendment had been adopted.

In 1876, a new convention was called and holden, which proposed amendments changing the constitution in thirteen particulars, all of which, except two, were adopted by the people in March, 1877, as appeared by the proclamation of the governor of April 17, 1877. By the legislative enactment, most of these amendments took effect on the first day of August, 1877, and the rest were to take effect at such times that the election in March, 1878, should be held under the old constitution, and the officers then elected should hold one year, till June, 1879, and that, in November, 1878, the first election should be held under the new constitution, and officers elected who should hold two years from June, 1879.

The constitutional convention of 1889 proposed seven amendments, five of which were adopted. The governor gave notice of their adoption by proclamation dated April 2, 1889.

The sense of the people on the question of holding a constitutional convention was taken in 1894 and again in 1896, in each instance with a negative result.

In 1900, a majority voted in favor of a convention, and the legislature called one to meet on the first Tuesday in December, 1902. This convention proposed ten amendments, four of which were adopted in March, 1903.

In 1910, the vote was in favor of a convention, which was called and held on the first Wednesday in June, 1912. It submitted twelve amendments, four of which were adopted in November, 1912.

In 1916, the vote was again for a convention. It was called to be held on the first Wednesday in June, 1918. After a session of three days, it adjourned, to reassemble at the call of a committee consisting of the president and one delegate from each county. It reassembled at the call of the committee on Tuesday, January 13, 1920. It proposed seven amendments, and adjourned to the call of the president. All the proposed amendments were rejected in November, 1920.

In January, 1921, the legislature appropriated funds for the expenses of the convention, and, on the call of the president, it met on Friday, January 28, 1921. It proposed four amendments, all of which were rejected in March, 1921.

In 1924, the vote was against calling a convention.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION

Population of the state.—New Hampshire was one of the original thirteen states. According to the Fourteenth Census, taken as of January 1, 1920, its population is 443,083, which represents an increase of 12,511, or 2.9 per cent, over the population in 1910. During the same period the population of the United States increased 14.9 per cent. The following summary shows the population of New Hampshire from 1790, the first Federal census, to 1920, inclusive, together with the number and per cent. of increase in each decade, in comparison with the per cent. of increase for the United States as a whole.

Counties.— New Hampshire has 10 counties, 5 of which increased in population during the last decade, and 5 decreased.

The largest percentage of decrease was in Carroll County—8 per cent. There have been no changes in county boundaries since 1910.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state in 1920 is 9,031 square miles and the average number of persons to the square mile is 49.1 (see Table 1); in 1910 and 1900 the averages were 47.7 and 45.6, respectively.

Minor civil divisions.—In New Hampshire the primary division of the county is the town or city, and in 1920 these number 224 and 11, respectively; but, in addition to the town or city, Carroll County has 1 location and Coos County has 3 locations, 10 grants, 7 townships, and 6 purchases, making the total number of primary divisions in the state 262. Besides these primary divisions, there are 2 secondary divisions, or incorporated villages which are not independent minor civil divisions, but form parts of the towns in which they are located (see Table 2).

Of the 262 primary divisions referred to above, 9 of those in Coos County have had no population returned at the last three censuses, and are not included in Table 2 in the minor civil divisions of the county.

Cities.—Manchester, the largest of the 11 cities of New Hampshire, has a population of 78,384 in 1920. Nashua, the next largest, has a population of 28,379 and Concord, the capital of the state, 22,167. (See Tables 3 and 4.)

The following summary shows, for each city having 10,000 inhabitants or more in 1920, the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Urban and rural population.—The census Bureau defines urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more. As New Hampshire has no incorporated villages of 2,500 or more and no city of less than 6,000 inhabitants, it has been considered advisable to include in the urban territory not only the population of the 11 cities of New Hampshire, but also that of all towns having over 2,500 inhabitants. This probably results in the “urban area” of New Hampshire including some population which in other states would be segregated as “rural,” but as this inclusion covers only 16 towns out of a total of 227, there is no reason to suppose that the proportion of urban population is greatly overstated.

Urban population in New Hampshire, being thus defined, the rural population, therefore, consists of the population outside of towns and cities having 2,500 inhabitants or more.

The following summary presents, for the last three censuses, the urban and rural population of the state distributed among cities and towns grouped according to specified limits of population. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census. The percentage of the population of New Hampshire living in cities and towns of 2,500 or more at the three census periods was 63.1, 59.2 and 55, respectively, there being during each decade practically the same increase in the proportion of urban population.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE FLAG

The state flag was authorized by an act of the Legislature of 1909, New Hampshire prior to that never having had a state flag duly authorized and described by law.

The provisions of the act were that "the body or field of the flag shall be blue, and shall bear upon its center in suitable proportion and colors a representation of the state seal. The motto shall include the date 1784. Said seal shall be surrounded by a wreath of laurel leaves with nine stars interspersed. When used for military purposes said flag shall conform to the regulations of the United States."

In this act which was approved February 24, 1909, it was further provided:

"Said flag shall be displayed upon the State House whenever the legislature is in session, and during meetings of the Governor and Council when expedient, and upon such other occasions as the Governor may designate."

The inscription upon the field of blue, together with the wreath surrounding it, is laid on in gilt. A gold fringe surrounds the body of the flag, and either a yellow silk or gold cord is used to attach it to the staff.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE GOVERNMENT

The constitution divides the government into three branches. They are the executive branch, the legislative branch, and the judicial branch. The executive department consists of the governor and council, the secretary of state, the deputy secretary of state, the treasurer, the commissary-general and such other officers as the legislature has established. The legislative branch consists of a senate and house of representatives. The judicial branch consists of a system of courts established by the legislature. The military establishment is part of the executive branch and the governor is commander-in-chief of the military establishment.

In addition to the several constitutional officers mentioned above, the legislature has, from time to time, arranged and organized new offices so that the government now includes the following departments:

- Governor.
- Executive council.
- Department of state.
- Treasury.
- Militia.
- Legislature.
- Judiciary.
- Bank commission.
- Public service commission.
- Insurance department.
- Purchasing department.
- Fish and game department.
- Department of public instruction.
- Department of agriculture.
- Commission of pharmacy and practical chemistry.
- Tax commission.
- Department of health.
- Forestry department.
- Department of records.
- Dental board.
- Ballot law commission.
- Department of labor.
- Department of charities and correction.
- Board of registration in medicine.
- Veterinary examining board.
- Department of law enforcement.
- Highway department.
- Optometry board.
- Department of institutions.
- Department of motor vehicles.
- Department of weights and measures.
- Examiners of embalmers.

Examiners in chiropody.
 Chiropractic examining board.
 Auditor.
 Liquor agency.
 Board of publicity.

In subsequent chapters will be given brief sketches of the histories of these departments in order given, together with a list of the men who have occupied the more important posts in the government from the time of earliest provincial days to the present. Colonial government began in 1680 and state government under the constitution began in 1784. The colonial period included about ninety-five years down to the revolution in 1775. The revolutionary period included about nine years to the constitution and the history of the state is now in its one hundred and forty-third year.

THE GOVERNOR

The governor is the chief executive and his title is "His Excellency." Provincial governors were appointed by the king of England and they had various titles such as "president," "lieutenant-governor," "deputy-governor" and "governor." For the first eighty years governors frequently did not reside in the province.

When the revolution broke out the royal governor withdrew, in 1775, and the province was ruled by a revolutionary convention headed by a president. The next year a temporary constitution provided for a president of a council and chairman of a committee of safety to be the chief executive. The constitution of 1784 provided for a president to be elected by popular vote and in 1792 the title was changed to governor. In 1913 the election of the governor was changed from the majority-vote system to the plurality-vote system. Previous to that the failure of a candidate to receive a majority vote threw the election into the legislature.

GUBERNATORIAL VOTES

(† Indicates election by the people, * by the legislature.)

Year.
 1784 Meshech Weare unanimously elected "president."

(NOTE—There was no party alignment during the early years of the government. Followers of the national constitutional government, headed by John Sullivan and John T. Gilman were Federalists, and the opposition was known as the anti-Federalist party.)

Revolutionary Councilors, 1776-84. .

Article 60 of the second part of the constitution provides for an executive council of five men to advise and act with the governor. Before the constitution there was a council both under the temporary constitution of the Revolution and under the provincial government. Since 1913 councilors have been elected by plurality vote to represent population but previously to that they were elected by majority vote to represent property, and in the colonial days they were appointed.

The following is a complete list of all the councilors since the Revolution giving the name of each and the year in which he was elected or appointed.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Articles 67, 68 and 69 of the second part of the constitution provide for a department of state with a secretary of state who is elected biennially by the legislature and a deputy secretary of state appointed by the secretary. In the colonial period there was a secretary appointed by the chief executive, but no deputy. During the revolutionary period and under the constitution of 1784 the secretary was chosen by the legislature and given authority to have several deputies, but in 1793 the constitution was changed to provide for a single deputy.

The following is a list of the forty secretaries of state from the beginning, together with the term which each served and a list of the thirty-eight deputy secretaries.

THE SENATE

The senate began under the constitution and first met in 1784. There were at first twelve senators who represented the five counties that then existed, five senators from Rockingham county, two from Strafford, two from Hillsborough, two from Cheshire, and one from Grafton. In 1793 senatorial districts were created to take the place of county representation and each district elected one senator. The elections during the early years took place in March and the legislature met in June annually.

The senatorial districting of 1793 was changed over in 1803 and several times subsequently. In 1878 the senate was doubled in size. In 1915 the senators were elected by plurality instead of majority vote. The following is a complete list of the senators from the beginning, showing the name and residence of each member of each senate, arranged in the order of districts from 1793, when the districts were created, and previous to that year, in the order of counties.

THE JUDICIARY

The Constitution in article 4, part 2, gives the legislature full authority to establish courts. There is a supreme court and a superior court, each with a chief and four associate justices; a probate court in each county, with a probate judge and municipal police courts in the cities and most of the towns.

Previous to the Revolution there was a superior court of judicature for the Province, which sat from 1693 to 1776, eighty-three years. This was succeeded by the superior court of judicature, which sat from 1776 to 1813, thirty-seven years. The supreme judicial court took its place in 1813 and lasted three years, until 1816. Then the superior court of judicature was re-established and sat until 1855, thirty-nine years. This was succeeded in 1855 by the supreme judicial court, which lasted until 1874, nineteen years. Then the superior court of judicature was restored for two years, to be succeeded in 1876 by the supreme court, which has since, during a period of forty years, been the highest court in the state.

The superior court was first known as the court of common pleas, which was established in 1813 with two circuits, eastern and western. In 1816 the circuits were abolished and two districts were established, and in 1820 these were merged into the court of sessions. In 1824 the court of common pleas was re-established to sit, until in 1833, after an existence of nine years, the court went out of existence. In 1842 the circuit court was re-established without any circuits or districts, and it sat for seven years, until 1849, when it was abolished. In 1851 it was again re-established and was reorganized in 1855 and abolished in 1859. It was once more re-established in 1874 and lasted two years. In 1901, after a lapse of twenty-five years, a secondary court was established under the name of superior court, which has been since maintained.

The following is a list of the chief justices of the supreme court under its various names and organizations from the beginning, with the residence and term of service of each chief justice. BANK COMMISSIONERS

The first act relating to the bank commissioners was passed in 1837. It provided for the appointment of three commissioners for a term of one year each. Prior to 1837, such examination of the banks of the state as was made, was performed by committees of the legislature. As early as 1814, the banks were required to make returns of their condition to the governor and council, who submitted the same to the legislature.

The work of these legislative committees and of the bank commissioners was confined to banks of issue and discount until 1841, when the commissioners were directed by the legislature to make examinations of the savings banks of the state. There were, however, only eight savings banks at that time, and their total deposits were less than one million dollars.

The terms of the commissioners continued to be of one year each until 1881, when the number was reduced from three to two and the terms made two years each. In 1889, the law was amended and a board of three commissioners was created with terms of three years each, the terms being so arranged that one expired each year. The board of commissioners was abolished in 1913 and one commissioner and a deputy provided by the legislature. In 1915, a board of three commissioners was restored, with one commissioner designated as chairman; and the terms were extended to six years, with one expiring every two years. The legislature, in 1925, again abolished the commission and established the offices of bank commissioner and deputy bank commissioner, each with a term of six years, and authorized the commissioner to employ two examiners and two accountants, in addition to the clerical force of the office.

Until 1881 the commissioners were paid for their examinations by the banks at the rate, at first, of two dollars per day and ten cents a mile for travel. Subsequently the per diem was increased to three dollars, and in 1885 to five dollars. Salaries were first established in 1889.

The following is a roster of the bank commissioners of the state and their terms of service:

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

The public service commission was formerly known as the railroad commission, and was created by the legislature in 1844. Previous to that there had been a regulation of railroads by the state and as early as 1838 a law was passed authorizing the governor and council to appoint three commissioners in each county. The first state commission, however, was named in 1844, and in 1855 election by popular vote was substituted for appointment. In 1883 election was abolished and appointment restored. In 1911 the name was changed to public service commission and the powers and duties of the board enlarged. Previous to 1911 commissioners were appointed or elected one at a time for three-year terms, but since that year the term has been six years. Special commissioners have served from time to time, but were not regarded as members of the state board and are not listed below in the following list of commissioners from the beginning, with the residence of each and term served.

The department of institutions was created in 1913 and reorganized in 1915, and included the government of five institutions, the prison, hospital, sanatorium for consumptives, industrial school and school for feeble-minded children. Ten trustees were appointed by the governor and council, two each year for five-year terms. The trustees employed a purchasing agent who did the buying for all the state departments and such institutions as requested the privilege. From 1913 to 1915 the department was governed by a board of control.

In 1917 there was created a board of trustees of state institutions for the management of the above institutions, the making of repairs of all state buildings except the state house and the buildings of the University of New Hampshire and for the purchase of supplies for all institutions and departments except the University. This board of trustees consisted of five members appointed by the governor and council for five-year terms. In 1919 the law was again amended placing the ultimate authority over and supervision of the institutions and departments in the governor and council who were authorized to appoint seven trustees for each institution consisting of five appointed members for five-year terms and two ex-officio members. NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE HOSPITAL

The first legislative act to provide personal care for the insane was passed in 1822, providing that any insane person who had committed a crime and was not guilty by reason of insanity, and who would be dangerous to be at large, should be committed by court to prison until restored or discharged by due process of law. Soon after this, agitation throughout the state developed for some better method of care and treatment of the insane. Newspapers enlisted in the cause. In 1836 the legislature passed an act requesting the governor to issue a precept to the selectmen of the towns "to take the sense of the qualified voters on the following question: Is it expedient for the state to grant an appropriation to build an insane hospital?" So successful was this appeal that not only were private funds raised, but in 1838 an act of incorporation was passed, entitled, "An Act to incorporate 'The New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane.' "

The management of the institution was at first semi-private and public, and was vested in a board of trustees, represented in part by the donors and in part by appointees selected by the governor and council, under an act of the legislature of 1839. In the following year, 1840, the legislature repealed the act providing for mutual representation of the donors and the state on the board of trustees, and providing that all trustees should be appointed by the state. With this act of legislation of 1840 the erection of an asylum for the insane was assured, and the trustees, with the assistance of state and private aid, began the erection of an institution at Concord, which was opened in 1843.

The early construction of the hospital was after the plan of the solid or block type of building. In the case of the asylum there was an administration center, with wings extending from either side. Additional wings have from time to time been added to the original unit, as the exigencies demanded. Modern construction calls for the erection of detached groups of buildings, and in 1882 the first detached building was erected for the care of convalescent, appreciative and intelligent women patients, and is known as the Bancroft building.

From this latter date various events in the history of the hospital have followed each other in rapid sequence, as the following chronological happenings indicate:

Training School for Nurses	1888
Walker Cottage at Lake Penacook	1892
Workshop for Men	1892
Twitchell House	1895
Nurses' Home	1900
Change of name from New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane to New Hampshire State Hospital	1901
State Care Act, authorizing removal of dependent in- sane from almshouses to state hospital	1903
North and South Pavilions	1904
Hospital Building	1906
Heat, Light and Power Plant	1910
Walker Building	1913
Brown Building	1925

The above dates refer to the years in which the various buildings were opened.

Superintendents of the hospital from its opening have been as follows:

George Chandler, M. D.	1842-1845
Andrew McFarland, M. D.	1845-1852
John E. Tyler, M. D.	1852-1857

STATE PRISON

The old prison was built in 1812 and the present prison in 1880, and is governed by a warden appointed by the trustees of institutions. From 1913 to 1915 the prison was under the board of control, which was abolished. Previous to 1913 there was usually a board of prison trustees, who acted under the governor and council and by their appointment.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

The industrial school at Manchester was established by the legislature in 1855 and opened in 1858. Its original name was the house of reformation for juvenile and female offenders and was conducted along the lines of a penal institution. It was situated on part of the homestead of General John Stark of the Revolutionary army. In 1881 the name was changed to the industrial school and the policy of its management was changed from that of a penal to that of an educational reformatory. During the last ten years the cottage system of housing the inmates has been carried out, and the present value of the property is over $250,000.

The management of the institution was at first vested in a board of trustees appointed by the governor and council. In 1913 the trustees were succeeded by the board of control, and this board was in turn succeeded in 1915 by the trustees of state institutions.

The following is a list of the superintendents of the school from the beginning, with the term served by each:

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE SANATORIUM

The sanatorium for consumptives, officially known as the New Hampshire state sanatorium, is at Glencliff, on the southern slope of Mount Moosilauke in the White Mountains. It was established by the legislature in 1907 and opened in 1909. Its establishment resulted from the recommendation of a commission which was authorized by the legislature in 1901 and which consisted of Dr. Ezra Mitchell of Lancaster, Dr. Nathaniel G. Brooks of Charlestown and Dr. Irving A. Watson of Concord, secretary of the state board of health.

The commission made its report and recommendation in 1902, and five years later the legislature established the sanatorium. It is 1,650 feet above the sea and it enjoys an average of 170 perfectly clear days every year. In 1909 the two wards, one for men and one for women, were opened; in 1912 they were enlarged and a service building was added; and in 1913 and 1914 a barn, piggery, refrigerating plant, coal pocket and shack were added.

The sanatorium has a capacity of over one hundred patients now and there are 411 acres of land. The value of the property is nearly $150,000, and its management is vested with the board of trustees. The following is a list of the superintendents of the sanatorium from the beginning, with the name of the sanatorium from which each came to Glencliff and the term served.

LACONIA STATE SCHOOL

The school for feeble-minded was created by the legislature in 1901. Previous to that the feeble-minded children were supported by the state at the Massachusetts School for Feeble-Minded at Waverly, Mass. The New Hampshire school was established at Laconia, and its government vested in a board of trustees, consisting of the governor and five others appointed by the governor and council. In 1913 the trustees were abolished and the institution placed under the board of control. In 1915 this board was abolished and the institution placed under the trustees of state institutions and two members, Rev. John J. Brophy of Concord and William H. Moses of Tilton, were designated to look after this institution especially.

The school is situated on the slope of a ridge, two miles from the railroad and the city. It is bounded by the Belknap county farm on the south, Lake Opeeche on the east and Lake Winnisquam on the west. The school was opened in 1903, and the following year its only brick dormitory was burned. The school was rapidly rebuilt and has expanded since then.

While the school has grown steadily by new construction and the acquirement of land, the social, ethical and educational side shows equal development. Suitable social amusement and entertainment, with varied healthful occupations, such as approved by Seguin, Montessori and Dr. Fernald, are provided. The children are taught folk and other dancing, games, drills, music, basketry, knitting, weaving and the usual mental school work as far as each one is able to progress. Manual training, cobbling and the domestic sciences are also taken up. As all the vegetables, as well as the milk, for the entire school are raised on the grounds, the boys are given valuable instruction in gardening, farming and the care of the stock. The legislature of 1925 changed the name of the institution from "School for Feeble-Minded" to "Laconia State School."

The age of admission, by application and physician's certificate, is from three to twenty-one years, but women up to the age of forty-five may be committed by probate court.

The following is a list of superintendents of the school from its establishment, with the term served by each:

Dr. Charles L. Little	1903-10
Dr. Benjamin W. Baker	1910-

New Hampshire college was founded in 1866 and is known as New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts. It was situated at Hanover and connected with Dartmouth college, both having the same president, for twenty-six years. The legislature of 1885 took steps to move the college, on the ground that it had graduated "less than forty agricultural students" in twenty years. In 1892 the college was removed to Durham.

Government of the college is vested in a board of trustees, consisting of the governor, the president of the college, two members elected by the alumni and nine appointed by the governor and council, making thirteen in all. The nine appointive members who may be men or women must represent both major political parties, and two of them must be farmers. The term of office is three years.

STATE LIBRARY

The library was established in 1823, when all the books that had been accumulating for years in the state house were deposited in the department of state, and for forty-two years the secretary of state was librarian also. In 1865 the legislature officially established the library as a separate institution, and a board of library trustees was created the following year. It consisted of three men, one appointed each year by the governor and council for a term of three years. The board appoints a librarian, who serves at the pleasure of the trustees and is the active head of the library. In 1891 the legislature created a library commission, consisting of the librarian and four others, and the commission was consolidated with the trustees in 1901. In 1913 a legislative reference bureau was created by the legislature and is a part of the library. The board was reorganized in 1917, and now consists of three trustees appointed by the governor and council, each for the term of six years.

Presidential Conventions

Four sets of Presidential electors appeared on the New Hampshire ballots used in the general election of November, 1928. The Republican and Democratic electors were nominated at State conventions held September 25 and September 26 at Concord and the Workers and Socialist parties were named by petitions filed with the Secretary of State as provided by the election laws.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The Republican National Convention was held at Kansas City the second week in June, the delegates and alternates elected at the Presidential Primary in March, attending. Due to the resignation of National Committeeman Fred W. Estabrook, of Nashua, Albert Hislop of Portsmouth was elected to the honor. Governor Huntley N. Spaulding was made Chairman of the New Hampshire Delegation.

The Convention nominated Herbert Hoover of Palo Alto, California for President and Charles R. Curtis of Kansas City for Vice President. At the Republican State Convention the Hoover and Curtis electors named, were: Harriet M. Spaulding of Rochester, Blanche Weymouth of Laconia, Ernest M. Hopkins of Hanover and Arthur E. Moreau of Manchester.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

The Democratic National Convention was held at Houston, Texas, the week following the Republican National Convention at Kansas City. Robert Jackson was elected National Committeeman from New Hampshire and Henri T. Ledoux was made Chairman of the New Hampshire Delegation.

Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York was nominated for President and United States Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas for Vice President by the convention. The Smith and Robinson electors nominated at the Democratic State Convention were: Iva H. Drew of Colebrook, Gustave LaFontaine of Manchester, George D. Lord of Hanover and Arthur F. Stearns of Mont Vernon.

WORKERS PARTY

The Workers Party of New Hampshire, by petition chose for electors to be placed upon the November ballot the following names: Victor H. Carlson, Concord; William Wentilla, Concord; Elba Korb Chase, Washington; and Victor Rimpila, Concord. William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow were standard bearers for the Workers Party.

SOCIALIST PARTY

The Socialist Party of New Hampshire, like the Workers Party, was given a space on the November ballot through the petitions submitted to the Secretary of State. The national candidates were Thomas and Maurer. The Presidential electors for the Socialist Party named by petition were James F. Bean of Portsmouth, William H. Wilkins of Claremont, Walter M. Wood of Greenfield and George C. Brooks of Franklin. This party also placed upon the ballot for the office of Governor of the State, Frank T. Butler of Franklin and George W. Greene of Portsmouth for Representative in Congress in the first district. Eli Bourdon of Claremont was placed upon the ballot as a candidate for Congress in the second congressional district.

Direct Primary 1928

The direct primary election was held September 11, 1928, with candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties participating.

The returns are given in detail in the following tables. In the summary the full names and addresses of the candidates, with their total vote, is given. The other tables, carrying the vote in detail, give only the last name of the candidates.

The first tables gives, by counties, the votes for governor, and representative in Congress of each party. The second table gives the votes for county officers. The third table gives the votes for councilors, by districts; and the fourth table the votes for state senators by districts.

RECOUNTS AFTER THE PRIMARY

After the primary election four recounts were conducted by the secretary of state, all in Republican contests.

In the 20th senatorial district the returns gave Sen. Harry H. Meader of Rochester, candidate for renomination, 1871 votes and Rep. Ralph L. Seavey of Rochester, 1812. The recount gave Senator Meader, 1857 and Mr. Seavey, 1834.

In the second ward of Manchester for representative, the returns gave Miss Ann Story, 488 votes and John W. Todd, 487. The recount gave Miss Story, 489 votes and Mr. Todd, 485.

In Belknap county for commissioners, the returns gave Arthur C. S. Randlett, 1423 and Fred R. Weeks, 1427. The recount gave Mr. Randlett, 1421 and Mr. Weeks, 1432, and there was no change in the result.

The recount of the Hillsborough county commissioner vote was the only recount which changed the result. The official returns gave: Edward H. Labine, 4,017 and Arthur P. Smith, 4,011; the recount reversed the standing of the two candidates, giving Mr. Smith, 3,977 and Mr. Labine, 3,957. Mr. Smith was declared the nominee.

Republican Organization, 1928

The Republican state convention met at Concord, Tuesday, September 25, 1928, with Ralph W. Davis of Manchester as president, and adopted the following platform:

Platform of the Republican Party

The Republican Party under the wise leadership of our New England President, Calvin Coolidge, has given the Country four more years of prosperous growth. Steady reductions in the National debt have been made and at the same time the tax burden has been substantially lessened. Costs of living have been lowered and stabilized and wages have been held at high levels to the continued improvement of the standards of living of the people. In the Kellogg Peace Treaties we have made the outstanding contribution during this period to the movement for world peace.

We are now offering as our candidate for the Presidency one of the most conspicuous and effective supporters of the Coolidge administration, a man known and loved in two continents as the executive head of great organized charitable enterprises; a man with unexampled training, experience and qualifications for the high office of President. To Herbert Hoover and Senator Charles Curtis, our party candidate for Vice President, we pledge our undivided and enthusiastic support.

National Platform

We endorse the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention at Kansas City and we propose to return to office our two experienced and able Republican Congressmen, Edward R. Wason and Fletcher Hale, to support the Hoover leadership.

The Spaulding Administration has added to the record of the Republican Party for honest and efficient government in the State. Under the leadership of our Governor prompt and effective relief has been brought to the areas stricken during the recent devastating flood. The financial policy inaugurated in the Winant Administration, establishing an accounting system since continued, reflects both the cash position of the Treasury and all contingent liabilities and resources. We stand ready to be judged on the record of these two administrations.

A spirited primary in which an unprecedented number of Republicans participated has demonstrated the vital interest of the rank and file of our voters in the affairs of their party this year. In Charles W. Tobey we have nominated a candidate for Governor who by character and ability is conspicuously qualified for the duties of the office and who will lead us to a decisive victory in November.

Economy in Government

The Republican Party pledges itself to continue the sound policy of a careful and economical appropriation and expenditure of the people's money to the work of the government.

Taxation

The Recess tax commission is charged with the duty of reporting its findings with respect to a more equitable distribution of the tax burden to the next Legislature. We promise careful consideration of its recommendations and pledge our active efforts to enact such laws as will make our system of taxation more equitable. To mention one problem of many, the present method of taxing growing timber is admittedly unscientific. If under constitutional limitations no relief can be secured, we favor a constitutional amendment to make relief possible. With these possibilities in view we favor the calling of a constitutional convention.

Natural Resources

We believe that a wise use of the natural resources of the State particularly our water power will tend to equalize our manufacturing conditions in competition with other localities so that New Hampshire may steadily increase its industrial output. The problem of retaining control to insure a maximum of development and use together with low rates to the consumer and safety to the investor, challenges the best thoughts of our Legislators. Any solution must include the provision that all power developed in the State, shall at all times be available for use in the State. We recommend that every intelligent effort to keep pace with the rapidly developing situation in this field, be encouraged and supported until a comprehensive policy can be formulated and enacted into law.

Railroads

We pledge assistance to all communities of the State threatened with loss or curtailment of railroad facilities to the end that their needs may be adequately presented before the tribunals having jurisdiction over the subject.

Prohibition

We pledge the party to maintain and strengthen the existing prohibition law and to its wholehearted enforcement.

Agriculture—Industry

We promise to support the agricultural, industrial and commercial interests of the state in all their branches and we favor a comprehensive economic survey of all the resources of the state. We shall continue appropriations to further the work of the Publicity Bureau; we shall give effective support to the program of the New Hampshire Council of the New England Council and we commend especially its efforts to provide useful employment for our young people within the state; we shall provide for the continued improvement of the highways and their maintenance under an equitable distribution of the burden; we favor the taking over of the maintenance of trunk lines by the state and increasing the aid now given to towns for rural roads, we shall maintain the present high standards of our schools and the State University, as well as the State Institutions for the dependent and delinquent in order that the coming generation may have an opportunity to develop to full physical and intellectual capacity, that the wants of the unfortunate may be relieved, and that our State may continue to hold its fair name in the sisterhood of states.

Democratic Organization, 1928

The Democratic state convention met at Concord, Wednesday, September 26, 1928, with Rev. Anthony R. Parshley of Lancaster as president, and adopted the following:

DEMOCRATIC STATE PLATFORM

We heartily endorse the platform of our party in the nation and our splendid candidates for President and Vice President.

The Democratic party stands, and always has stood for equality, honesty, justice and service. These standards are typified by the enactment by our party in the nation of the Federal Reserve Act, the creation of the Federal Trade Commission, the Tariff Commission and the passage of the Rural Credits Law; and in the State by the constructive acts of the Samuel D. Felker and Fred H. Brown administrations.

We believe that with Alfred E. Smith and Joseph T. Robinson as our leaders in the nation, and Eaton D. Sargent, Francis Clyde Keefe and Alfred W. Levensaler in the state, supported by our other candidates, the Democratic party can be depended upon to place upon the statute books further progressive legislation for the benefit of all the people.

Law Enforcement

We believe in the enforcement of all laws, including the Eighteenth Amendment.

Natural Resources

We believe in the preservation of the rights of the public in all of our natural resources, including water powers.

We believe also in the strict supervision of the cost to the consumer of power developed by these water powers, whether to the householder, the merchant or the manufacturer.

We pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law empowering the Public Service Commission to employ and pay experts and counsel to represent the interest of the public in all matters brought before that body relating to rates for service and the issue of securities by all public utilities, whether by operating companies or holding companies, and to provide an adequate appropriation therefor.

Labor

We believe that the establishment of the forty-eight hour week for women and children in manufacturing plants is necessary for their welfare.

Railroads

We condemn the policy of the Boston and Maine Railroad which has resulted in curtailment and loss of service to the serious damage of many communities in our State, and we pledge the Democratic party to the enactment of a law that will provide for a public advocate to present the cases of these communities before the proper tribunals.

University of New Hampshire

We look with disfavor upon any attempt to impair the policy of the State, enacted into law by the Legislature of 1925, for the support and maintenance of the University of New Hampshire, which provides a higher education at moderate expense for the young people of our State.

In General

If placed in power we promise the people of New Hampshire to conduct the affairs of the State wisely, economically and efficiently, as we have in the past, neglecting no necessary public enterprise for the welfare of the State and its citizens in matters of education, transportation, taxation, highways, agriculture, state publicity and the care of the unfortunate.

We pledge our best efforts to bring about the election of all our candidates.

VOTERS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

The following tables give, by counties, the comparative figures for every town and ward, on number of voters and votes cast. The first column gives the population of the town; the second gives the number of legal voters at the time of the election November 6, 1928; the third gives the total number of votes cast at that election; the fourth gives the vote on the expediency of calling a constitutional convention.

The population totals are slightly less than the totals given in the 1920 census tables, page 97. This is accounted for by the population of unincorporated places being omitted in this table.
